

MIDWEST WATER STEWARDS
The Stewardship Standard

Groundwater regulation is not coming - it is here and it is growing.

Public perception is fueled by continued media reports that agricultural water use is depleting our water resources and threatening global water supplies. Demonstration of environmental stewardship and public education based on real world data are the key factors to correct public perception, influence regulatory changes, and protect individual water rights.

Protect your Water Rights
Be a Part of the Solution!

You are cordially invited to meet with a select group of growers to discuss current water use regulations and significant changes that are coming within the next year. We will provide specific steps Michigan farmers should be taking to protect the water critical to our farming communities and to prove farmers are good stewards on the environment.

Please come join us on March 3 from 10am-Noon
